

Home of the Year 2017: Amazing window seals deal

Updated / Friday, 21 Apr 2017 11:04

Last night, Louise McGuane and Dominic McCarthy went through to the Home of the Year final.

Last night on RTÉ One, Louise McGuane and Dominic McCarthy's 18th Century farmhouse got through to the HOTY final. Check out pics of their winning home and meet the contenders for next week's Home of the Year final.

Watch the final of Home of the Year on RTÉ One next Thursday at 8.30pm. Missed an episode? Catch up now on RTÉ Player.

The exterior shot of Louise McGuane and Dominic McCarthy's 18th Century farmhouse.

The exterior shot of Louise McGuane and Dominic McCarthy's 18th Century farmhouse.

The cottage has a deceptive exterior.

This home may look like a traditional farm cottage to anyone passing by but the interior is another story.

The judges fell in love with the enormous picture windows.

Declan O'Donnell loved the clean look of the kitchen.

The living area is home to high ceilings and a suspended fireplace.

High ceiling and enormous picture windows made this farmhouse a winner.

The interior design is modern and spacious.

The kitchen had personalised touches such as this chalkboard wall.

Stunning views of West Clare.

The staircase is made of old railway sleepers.

The couple gave the farmhouse a modern makeover.

Stunning views from every room.